Garfield Ladner Promises More Progress For Waveland

Garfield Ladner promised to continue "This good government" when he was re-elected Mayor of the Town of Waveland Saturday.

Ladner led the mayoralty race with a total of 308 votes. His nearest opponent was Wallace Bourgeois with 59 votes. The other candidate in the race, Mrs. Bea Georgi, received 52 votes.

The mayor said, "It was nice to know that I have that many friends, who once again have chosen me to serve as mayor. I will serve them in the future as I have in the past."

"I want to ask all those who voted for me and those who voted against me to work together for the betterment of the town I will cooperate with everyone."

Ladner, who won with the largest majority he had ever received since he was first elected in 1942, continued, "I credit this fact to the improvements I have made in the town during the past four years. My work has satisfied the people. I want Waveland to continue to be a progressive town—one in which folks can raise their children—one which they will be proud of."

In the other races Willie Bourgeois Jr. was elected treasurer. He had a total of 308 votes. His opponent, Oswald Villere, received 24 votes.

In the race for alderman J. Alvin Weinfurter was unopposed in the first ward. In the second ward William Bourgeois defeated Charles Ladner, 91 to 44. Tony Bourgeois was elected in the third ward. He had a total of 126 votes to 69 for William (Billy) Soldine. In the fourth ward Norvin Penrice was unopposed. This was the first time he sought this office.

The Democratic Committee, composed of five citizens, was unopposed. It consisted of Mrs. Fred Bourgeois, Allan Carver, Paul Bentley, Mary Moran and Walter Yarborough. This committee received 341 votes.

Mrs. Georgi, who protested 32 times, said "I want to thank the people who cast their votes for me. I may contest the election. I am waiting for advice from my attorney. I have 20 days to decide on this issue."

She added, "I think that some of the people could have stayed home and let Mr. Ed Gipson vote their ballot. As it was, he voted for people who could not read or write."

Mrs. Georgi caused quite a stir when she protested on absentee ballots on the grounds that the man named Homestead Exemption in New Orleans. The carrier of the ballot showed that he did not and named the names of the people present for witnesses.

A few people refused to vote after they were contested by Mrs. Georgi.

Pass, Bay Yachts Capsize During Race

Rip Terrell of the Pass Christian Yacht Club, who with Henry Chapman of the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club overturned in a small Sunday during the Biloxi Regatta, reported at 60 mile gusts caused the accidents.

"Within about 15 seconds, my boat, Chapman's and that of Stanford Morese, who was sailing the Gulfport entry, were all capsized," he said.

It was thought that the "makings" of a water spout came up suddenly as the three were rounding the channel marker during the last race of the Biloxi event.

Only one boat finished the race.

"We were lucky not to have been hurt, but all of us stayed with the boats," said Terrell. Later boats from the club came out and picked us up."

It was the first time such an accident has occurred to Terrell.

"And I hope this will be my last," he added.

The body of 13 year old Carrie Ann Ducote, whose parents sent her off Sunday to a happy afternoon at Ponchartraine beach, was recovered at Henderson Point, where she drowned despite the efforts of a young friend to save her.

The New Orleans girl, according to the office of constable Eaton Garriga of Pass Christian, stepped off into the channel when she and Jerry Deglandon of New Orleans went swimming.

She disappeared, inspite of her companion's efforts to help her, the constable's office said. Deglandon then notified authorities.

TOWN OF WAVELAND BUYS WATER COMPANY FOR $26,451.77

The Town of Waveland purchased the Waveland Water Works from Norma Gex Perkins for $26,450.77.

Effective today the Waveland Water Company will no longer furnish water to the residents of the town.

Mayor Garfield Ladner said, "This will serve as an added revenue to the Town of Waveland. Also the water system has been in bad shape in the past. At times you would get no pressure whatsoever. We feel by buying the water works we will be able to give better service. With this extra service I think that Waveland will have more construction than in the past years."

Ladner explained that besides the original selling price of $25,500 the town also gave the previous owner $951.77 that she had spent making improvements since the agreement was reached.

He announced that the Town of Waveland will contact the residents in a short time to notify them as to how and where they must pay their water bills.

Phone Company May Drop Some Coast Tolls

The Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company this week announced a proposed new plan whereby residents of Bay St. Louis and Pass Christian may be able to place free telephone calls to their neighboring towns.

At a cost of about $63,400, the company's announcement stated, arrangements can be made to set up a system whereby Bay St. Louis can place toll free calls to the Pass and Pass Christian parties can call Bay St. Louis and Long Beach free of charge.

The plan was drawn up, the announcement stated, at the request of many subscribers along the coast, who felt that calls should be free to towns who border on theirs.

Phone users will be given a chance in the near future to vote on the plan. Just how this will be done will come in a later announcement.

Under the plan, there would be no charge in phone rates for Bay St. Louis. Pass Christian and other towns along the coast would have a slight increase in rates.

Rates for Pass Christian would be as follows: For residence phones of one party, $5.35 per month; for two party lines, $4.60 per month; for four party lines, $1.10 per month and for rural lines, $3.75 per month.

For business phones, one party lines, $11.75 per month; two party lines, $10; four party lines, nine dollars and rural lines, $5.35.

The city officials of Bay St. Louis have signed a contract with Consultant Engineer William T. Johnson to make a preliminary survey of the city's water and sewerage system.

This survey will consist of a hydraulic study of the water distribution system, which will include plans for improving and modernizing this system.

"One of the main reasons for the study of the water system is to assure an adequate service for domestic use," Mayor Scalf said.

This survey also will take in an investigation of the population concentration, and topography to determine the water tables. It will study the soil condition and layout of a sanitary sewerage collection system and sewerage treatment works to serve present needs and possibilities of future demands.

At the end of the survey Johnson will make recommendations to the city commission council concerning the proper location, size and priority of construction for a sewerage system.

Mayor Scalf said, "If the cost of this system is not too large we will hold a bond issue election for funds to begin work."

"This preliminary survey is the first step toward Bay St. Louis getting a sewerage system and modernizing the present water system. These are features that the town has been needing for a very long time. With the construction of these important facilities the city will definitely be in a position to make great strides in its development.

It will also enhance greatly the possibility of bringing in new industrial developments in Bay St. Louis. One thing certain is that water meters will be constructed throughout the town," the Mayor added.

Plans for the hiring of a consultant engineer, to study the water and sewerage situation in Bay St. Louis were first brought before the commission in 1952 by the Chamber of Commerce.

It has been studied by the present council for the past two years. Commissioner Glover said, "After two years of research on different engineers and other problems concerning this survey we decided to secure the services of W. E. Johnson. He has been connected with this type of engineering work for the past 20 years. He was highly recommended to us by every possible source which we could locate."

"This survey will cost the city $1500. But if it is voted on to issue bonds for the construction of the system this fee will go toward the total cost of the engineer."

An advisory committee consisting of Leo Seals, Sr., Lambert Boyd, C. C. McDonald, Sr., and T. T. Robin approved the signing of the contract to begin the survey.

Clermont Man Tells Of Hollywood Work

By GREGORY FAYRE
Robert "Bones" Brown of Clermont Harbor recently returned from an engagement in Hollywood which saw him perform with zany Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis.

Brown secured this opportunity when he was signed to double for Lewis in their latest picture, "The Three Ring Circus," which will be released next January. Having worked with these two men of comedy for a period of seven weeks, the ex-circus performer was able to give his own personal opinion of each as an individual.

"Jerry is devoted to his immediate family. When he makes a friend, it is a true friend," Brown added.

He said, "Jerry is a real nice guy. He is very sincere and very appreciative of anyone who helps him. He is the type of boy who keeps himself at a very high tension at all times. He is always striving for perfection in his work and what most people don't know, he is very good looking."

Jerry is a comedian who has studied his work and has a tremendous amount of knowledge of comedy in the back of his mind. He realizes that some day his brand of comedy may no longer be successful, so he is preparing himself for another career. We would someday like to be a producer and director or pictures.

"At his home he has over $150,000 worth of motion picture equipment. At the present time he makes short satirical movies at his house, with some of his friends. When the movie is finished he holds a premiere. In the back of his house he has a small theatre, which seats about 20 people.

"For the first showing of his new home-made movie, he rents klieg lights and the invited audience arrives in automobiles at the door. Everything is like the premiere of "Dean is just the opposite. He is a nice boy. But, unlike Jerry, he is very easy going. In fact, I would say that he is the most relaxed person I have ever seen in all my life."

"He likes the social life very much. He makes and drops friends very readily. While Jerry is working on new material and other things to improve their act, Dean is out playing golf," Bones said. He continued, "This is one of the things that has brought them close to a breakup. Jerry has to make all the decisions for the team and the strain is great."

"But, contrary to many reports, I believe that the team has a long future ahead of it. These two boys need each other. If they would ever break up, I think Jerry could get along without Dean easier than Dean without Jerry."

While he was there Bones had the chance to have a reunion with Jimmy Stewart, for whom he doubled in "The Greatest Show On Earth." He also worked with stars like Joanne Dru Zsa Zsa Garbor, Gene Shelton and others.

"Joann Dru is a very sweet girl. She does very well in this picture. Zsa Zsa Garbor is a very beautiful woman. She has the most beautiful skin you ever want to see. But I would rather not give a personal opinion of her."

Brown stated that he felt like he was on a vacation. Pointing out that he only worked at doubling for the short time of 10 hours during the whole seven weeks. "The rest of the time I used as a technical advisor."

I helped them with the sets and matching the takes to make them look authentic. But I didn't even have to get in shape for the little circus work I had to do."

In the picture Brown will be seen on the screen for two minutes. In one scene he falls into a fire net for Lewis. In another he does a high dive into a net to simulate a shot of Lewis being shot out of a cannon. In a clown number he drives a jeep full of fire works and explodes them.

He said, "Jerry told me, 'You must not have a nerve in your body to do the things you do. I wouldn't do them for a million dollars.' I told him that I have been doing these kind of things all my life. It is just like anything else you do, once you get used to it."

Bones explained that this picture started under rather unusual and strained relations. "Jerry and Dean were having a fight with producer Hal Wallis. They resented the fact that he had held them a contract, which called for little money for five years. He also changed directors for this picture. And when he changed their contracts he made them agree to do one picture a year for him.

"In the beginning of the picture, they wouldn't work at all. They would brag that this was going to be the biggest flop they ever made. Jerry even went up to the director and asked him why he didn't quit his job on this picture? To top it off when they were shown the script they refused to do the picture unless it was changed. In the original script Dean had about a ten minute part in the picture."

"When we arrived in Phoenix at the Clyde Beatty circus we had no script. All we could do was make a few basic takes until the story arrived. Finally Dean and Jerry were able to settle their differences with Wallis and everything went okay after that."

Brown commented that Jerry Lewis kept the people on the set in stitches. "He will perform as long as he has an audience. He will knock himself out. Sometimes he is more comical in his idle moments than he is on stage. He can turn any situation into comedy. All during the shooting of the picture he was playing practical jokes with the rest of the people on the set. At times he would even throw a pie at you."

"Jerry insists that visitors be allowed on the set when he is making a picture. He feels that he can act better when he has a live audience," Brown said.

"These two boys spend money like water. They give away cuff links, ball point pens with 'Stolen From Martin and Lewis,' written on them, matches, pictures and many other things."

"Jerry keeps the man who first discovered him on the payroll for doing nothing. He told him if he made good that he would never have to work another day. And he has kept this promise.

"I had the opportunity to visit Jerry at his home and met his wife. She is a very sweet person. She gave up a very good career when she married Jerry."

Bones said, "To give you an idea how particular and interested Jerry is in his work here is something that happened when they came to New Orleans for a personal appearance. When he arrived I drove him to the auditorium to look over the situation. He blew up when he saw the way the stage was arranged. It was in the middle of the auditorium and Jerry refused to work with his back to any part of the audience. He made them set the stage on an angle and refund the money on the 2500 seats behind the stage. He said he would raise the price 7500 people than displease 10,000. He didn't care for the money, he wanted to give a good performance."

At this time Brown is waiting to hear from Cecil B. DeMille. DeMille has said he wants him to do some work in "The Egyptian," which will begin in September. "I do not hear from Mr. DeMille by July 1st I have to phone him. I do not know what kind of work he wants me to do. You don't ask a man like Mr. DeMille what he wants you for when he offers you a job. All you do is accept it. That way you can never go wrong," the tall, lean man said.

Brown, a very modest man, did not comment much on the fact that when the director was trying to find a double for Lewis they were figuring on hiring about 10 men. They thought that there was no one man that could do everything necessary. But after they received a letter of recommendation from DeMille, he sent for "Bones" at his home in Clermont Harbor.

Before he left Hollywood, Jerry Lewis complimented Bones on his fine work. And he added to this tribute by giving him the job of being his personal double in all his future pictures.

HERE'S THE RIGHT WAY TO SHIP YOUR CAKE BY MAIL

Russell Maurigi, Bay St. Louis cake baker extraordinaire, has come up with another kind of recipe - one for shipping cakes.

For the mother who must send a birthday cake 'off to school' for those whose servicemen are writing home for that homemade confection, Russell has compiled directions practically guaranteed to mean arrival of a fresh, whole cake, instead of a box of crumbs.

To begin, get an ordinary brown cardboard box, says Russell. Fold the top so the flaps are flush with the inside of the box. Do not cut off the flaps as they help to strengthen the box. Tape the flaps to the sides, so they do not loosen and touch the cake.

Take your cake and anchor it upon a cardboard disk with two or three bank pins about two inches long. (These rustproof pins are available at any office supply store). This you do by placing the pins under the disk and running them up through the cake at two or three different places. Then, Russell explains, place the cake securely anchored, in the box, being sure the cake is at least 3 or 4 inches below the rim of the box. Take three more pins, stick them through the outside of the box, through the disk and into the cake. Tape the pinheads outside the box, so they will not work loose and will keep the cake in a fast position in the box.

Place a piece of cellophane over the top of the box, taping it securely with scotch tape which you run around the four sides of the cellophane's edge. Be sure scotch tape meets scotch tape. This way there is no danger of the tape loosening.

This cake, covered only with cellophane, can be shipped anywhere in the United States by express.

Put the name of the receiver and his address, on the outside of the box, together with your return address.

It would be wisest to take your cake to the train just before time for the train to depart. Russell gives the highest recommendation to this method of shipping, having sent cakes in this manner himself. The recipients have notified him the cakes, complete with decorations and candles, always arrived in perfect condition.

BUYERS MART

A lady of our acquaintance came with her daughter to visit Bay St. Louis recently and ran smack into the middle of a party. Problem: no party dress, because the daughter brought only her jeans and bathing suit for a seashore weekend.

Naturally, the twosome went shopping. And so, for the shopper who just may lack one outfit to complete the weekend, we toured Mauffray's Dry Goods Store to select a mythical day-round wardrobe. You'll find these articles and many more in the cool surroundings of this superior clothing establishment.

You might check in at the lingerie counters first and select one of the pretty new fashions for sleeping. We noted particularly the little romper pajamas - yes, for grown ladies, rompers. They are made of pastel cotton plisse and are edged in lace. They are manufactured in Hammond, La., by the Sattlers of Bay St. Louis, and they cost $3.95.

The coolest thing in slips at Mauffray's is also made of plisse. It's a half-slip, which needs no ironing, and is beautifully made with lace trim and a little flounce on the skirt. It's elasticized only part of the way around the waist, to eliminate lines and increase the comfort in wearing the slip.

The price here is low. Then go over to Jantzen shorts which can be made in different ways. They are cutted or plain, or with a deep red, or with white. It has a high-necked effect at the top. In the bathing suit, is Jantzen again at the prices running from $16.95. The top choice is a heavy, black faille, for close fit and figure. It can be either strapless or with a panel in front, if that's in rhinestones.

For afternoon or dating, we selected a Susan Bon cream pale yellow, with small rosebuds in pink. It is a corded design on the full skirt which is repeated in circles on the bodice. Thin straps replace sleeves on this pretty summer costume costing $10.95.

You can't miss it when you go in Mauffray's—the window display. It's based on Georgette Hall's "House on Rampart Street" and features a copy of the book, jacket done by Mrs. Bert Quigley.

Altar boys were Clyde and Forrest Bourgeois, Lawrence and Norman Sonier, Ronnie Faivre, Fred and Ronnie Bourgeois, Joe and Richard Bourgeois, Richard Ferry, Harlen and Hiram Fayard also Claude Garcia and Joseph Treutel of Clermont Harbor.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Langley have returned to New Orleans after spending a week with Mrs. Georgette Stelz.

Langley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arvil Jenkins.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Bourgeois had as their guests for the weekend their son and daughter-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Morris Bourgeois.

Harold Carver, Jr., is spending a week as guest of his cousin, Georgette Stelz.

ostrum milk from its dam for three to four days. This promotes growth and helps prevent scours and infection. However, if you are unable to get the colostrum, give the calf 25,000 or 50,000 units of vitamin A in capsule form.

After two days, remove the calf from the cow and teach it to drink from a nipple bucket, or half gallon nipple bottle.

Calves can be raised on relatively little milk if they are given a good start while on milk and are taught early to eat a good calf starter and good hay.

A good rule is to give the calf around a pound of milk for each 10 pounds of its weight. This should be divided into morning and night feedings for the first 10 to 15 days. After this, you can get them started on calf starter and good hay.

After a heifer gets over four months old, she can be allowed pasture. But even then she needs two or three pounds of good grain ration, plus plenty of salt and minerals to keep them growing. Heifers under a year old should not be expected to get all their food from pasture. Never fatten a calf. Just feed them enough to keep them growing and angular.

5-ACRE COTTON CONTEST

Farmers interested in entering the Mississippi 5-Acre Cotton Contest must file application not later than June 15th.

The contest is open to any Mississippi Cotton farmer, youth or adult, who is responsible for managing his cotton crop. Only one 5-acre plot may be entered in the program by any one individual.

Each contestant shall plant only improved cotton varieties of high yielding and superior spinning qualities. No plot will be considered for a prize if planted to cotton seed more than 2 years from breeder.

Each contestant will be furnished a blank record card on which he should keep a complete record and turn in as soon as the plot is completely harvested.

All 5-acre plots must be identified by corner markers not later than July 1. The contest plot must be five acres in one continuous body of land.

For more information of the Mississippi 5-Acre Cotton Contest, see your local County Agent.

COTTON INSECT CONTROL

Don't wait until you need it to get your dusting and spraying equipment in shape. You know a lot can depend on having your insecticide applicators ready for instant use.

To get the equipment ready for use on a moments notice, check the entire machine for needed spare parts, check the pumping operation thoroughly and check hose connections. Hose replacements should be made of chemical-resistant rubber. Clean all nozzles and the entire spraying system thoroughly.

Timeliness is vital in cotton insect control, so have your pesticides on hand and equipment ready for use just when you need it.

How Can I...

Q. How can I give my plants brilliant luster?

A. Soak for five or six hours one ounce of white gum arabic in one quart of water, then add one ounce of glycerin. When well strained and bottle for use. Add one tablespoonful of this mixture into every three quarts of water used.

Q. How can I make coloring icing without artificial coloring?

A. By using orange juice, egg yolk for yellow, spinach juice for green, blackberry juice for lavender, or red beet juice for pink.

Not By Bread Alone

"Cast thy bread upon the waters," we are admonished. "Give us this day our daily bread," we pray, and we were warned in the beginning, "In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread?"

"Bread is the staff of life," and "Better is half a loaf than no bread" at all. The Master worked a miracle with loaves and fishes and we also have it from Holy Writ that "MAN DOES NOT LIVE BY BREAD ONLY."

Though man must eat to live, for bread is essential to his survival, life is made up of many elements and becomes increasingly involved as man takes dominion over the earth as he was commanded by God to do.

Living was a simple existence when food, shelter and raiment filled all the needs of mankind. A little bread and meat were then sufficient to keep body and soul together.

Though man's actual needs were always few, his wants are without limitations. The mainspring of his amazing progress has been in satisfying his desires rather than creating the essentials. In filling his boundless wishes man has unlocked nature's secrets to multiply his countless blessings. He has traveled far from that utilitarian state that the English philosopher John Mill said required only the few essentials of a fire, a frying pan and something to put in it.

And in addition to man's expanding wants and wishes, he also cherishes his freedom, his security and his independence. He satisfies his hunger with a little bread, but must want much more than that to spur him on in the pursuit of happiness. "Life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness," gifts from our Creator and guaranteed under our form of government, the dignity of the individual, man's inherent right to worship and work and save and dream and build, put a high premium upon our most priceless heritage, our American citizenship.

"Man doth not live by bread only." Bread alone would be eking out a kind of monotonous hand-to-mouth existence. Fortunate indeed, therefore, are they who lay up treasures on earth as well as in heaven.

Let's Make It Sane

We have the fourth of July weekend upon us. Our beaches will be jammed . . . our highways clogged . . . our visitors many.

This is the time for fun, and for reflection.

Unfortunately, it is also the time for massacre.

The trouble is that we massacre ourselves. There will be shooting in Indo-China but the highways of America will produce as many, if not more, casualties. There will be drownings. And there will be youngsters maimed by exploding fireworks.

Let's have none of that here.

You can play safe when you swim - and live to play again. You can take it easy on the highway - and live to take it easy again. You can see, courtesy of the American Legion, a far better fireworks display than you might produce holding a 'cracker too long in your hand.

This is a weekend when we play, and reflect upon the founding of our nation. Since 1776 we have come a long way - for better, and for worse.

Our constitution still serves us nobly, although there are some who would trample it for personal gain. It is a remarkable document, in that it has served for centuries with very few minor changes necessary.

Our basic freedoms are still dear. There are some who would abuse them, to be sure. But we must not eliminate them to fight this dastardly few. We do not outlaw automobiles to punish reckless drivers. Neither should we outlaw free speech to punish reckless demagogues.

The nation was founded on the simple principle that people should be allowed to do as they please insofar as they do not trample the rights of others.

That should always be the measure.

We are, of course, faced with an awful problem which our forefathers never envisioned - communism. But although communism is a new theory, and employs new techniques, it actually is not different than any other system of government which dictates completely to the people.

Hence, it can be - and should be - fought with the same weapons with which free peoples have fought oppression in the past.

These weapons are justice, truth and faith. In America we do not imprison people indefinitely merely for suspicion; they must be found guilty of a crime. This is our basic justice, and it must stand.

In America we believe in the truth. The "big lie" and the half-truth have been used by many - running from Hitler to McCarthy - to confuse us. For a while we confused easily, for we were trusting and expected the truth from our press and our public officials. Now we know we must dig a little and interpret a little to get the truth.

In America we have faith. We have built a wilderness into an industrial and agricultural colossus, and hence we have little patience with those who prefer crying to working. We must continue to have faith. Our future is as great as our past.

COASTING

By ANNE ORLEANS

Eleanor Havard of New Orleans, has bought a home on Felicity St. in Bay St. Louis and the many friends of the family hope that all three of her sisters will be frequent visitors, Julia, Mrs. T. Semmes Walmsley, widow of the former mayor of New Orleans will come over several times. Dr. Katherine Havard works very hard and because she should come over for a rest probably will not find the time. Mary Watson, like Katherine also keeps busy.

When you say Good Neighbor in New Orleans, it means the national and international business policy of the city including the Dock Board yacht, THE GOOD NEIGHBOR, on which all important visitors are taken for a tour of the harbor. Over on the Coast, good-neighbor means something else. Since the Ben Moises bought their charming cottage, they have put in many plants and shrubs but as they have to be in New Orleans during the week, their plants are having a hard time. Now, Mr. and Mrs. Hermes Trudeau are their neighbors and last week, Mr. Trudeau not only watered his own garden but went over and gave the plants in the Moises yard a thorough soaking. Thank God for good neighbors.

Still speaking of the Moises, heard this past week they have sold their home in Metairie and taken an apartment on St. Charles Avenue which means that they will spend more time on the Coast.

Dr. and Mrs. Roy Turner and Charley Benl spending a quiet weekend at the Turner place on the Old Spanish Trail with some nearby going and coming attached.

Clarence Monroe came over for the weekend. He has with him Peter and Gladys Monroe.

Col. and Mrs. Marcel Gillis having a grand time entertaining their grand children. Martha Restarick came down from Toledo, Ohio, with Henry Jr., David Gillis and the baby, Katherine Caffery about two weeks ago. Henry Restarick, Sr., came down this past Sunday to complete the family group. Last Sunday, Katherine Caffery Restarick, 20 months old, was christened at Christ Episcopal church.

Col. and Mrs. Gillis went to New Orleans last Saturday for the wedding of Caroline Baker, Mrs. Gillis' niece, to Lt. Whitfield Torn, of the Judge Advocate Division of the Air Service. Caroline is the last daughter in the big Caffery family to be married in the lovely old Donelson Caffery home on Race Street in the Garden District of New Orleans. Caroline and Whitfield are going to live in Palm Beach, Florida, to the great pleasure of Col. and Mrs. Gillis who spend all their winters in Florida.

Another home on the Beach opened for the summer is that of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Rowley. Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Lee Woods and their small son, John, came over to spend the past week end but for the family, the house is merely a point of departure. Caroline is on a Caribbean Cruise in the island of the West Indies and just love Jamaica. Helene left New Orleans last night for Camp Albee near Brevard, N. C., and Edward leaves next month for Camp Le Conte, near Gatlinburg. However, Ann, Missie and George will keep busy and keep mother busy. Mr. Rowley, who does so much fine civic work in New Orleans in addition to his business manages a long weekend by coming over on Thursdays.

Virginia and Fred Wagner, our recently newlyweds who honeymooned at Point Clair, Ala., are now at home in New Orleans in their apartment on Jackson Avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Turner working so hard not only on their pretty flower garden but trying to save the vegetable garden and in this dry weather that is really work. News from their daughter, Lucy, finds her flying around and visiting in Annapolis, Washing, D. C., and Virginia beach. Lucy attends Hollins College in Virginia so that is why her friends keep her in that part of the country.

Company picnics are becoming increasingly popular on the Gulf Coast. Genevieve and Lacey Richeson gave one for the associates and employees of the W. R. Richeson & Sons, Inc. There were 73 guests of whom 21 were children. The Richesons gave them 25 crab nets to use and unlimited swimming. They had a delicious luncheon of baked turkey, baked ham, wieners, several kinds of salads and ice cream, etc. Everyone had a grand time and Genevieve and Lacey are still getting compliments for a wonderful day.

What would busy mothers do without barbecue parties? The easiest and simplest form of entertaining today. Margaret Chamberlain and Lucy Gaudet gave a joint barbecue at Lacey's home for the children and their friends and Margaret gave one at her home for some more children and some more friends.

Some more New Orleans folks all settled to the summer are the Swoops, Hillery and Notts at the family home on South Beach. The Swoops are on residence at this time and Timony and Jim have many little friends who come over for weekends. Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Hillery and the family came over for the day Sunday and Andrew, Jr., will visit for some time. Margie and Sugar Hillery and pretty Isabel Notts were also among the Sunday visitors.

Back home with wonderful memories. So many things to remember that happened on their wonderful European trip for Mabel and Turk Carter, Dr. Irwin and Ruth Boulet and Monty and May Montgomery. They left in April and returned last week. Gibraltar was their first stop where the men in the tiny boats throw ropes up to the passengers on the big liners and they pull up the baskets and buy everything from cheap jewelry, souvenirs, etc. In Madrid they stopped at the Ritz one of the fabulous European hotels and saw all the famous Spanish landmarks. In Paris they stayed at the famous Plaza Athenee. Cathedrals, art galleries, the Eiffel Tower, famous restaurants, and shopping, mostly famous perfumes. They had bought the most wonderful kid gloves in Spain. In Rome, they were very fortunate and attended the Blessing Ceremony by the Pope. The crowd was tremendous and because of the recent illness of the Pope, the ceremony was brief but a deeply moving one. In Munich they were tremendously impressed by the driving energy of the people who are still working day and

COACH ADAMS AND FAMILY

Sportsweek

By GREGORY FAVRE

Herb Adams, formerly of Long Beach High School, will be the second new coach to plant his roots here in Bay St. Louis this year.

This young, modest man has signed a contract naming him the new assistant coach at St. Stanislaus. He replaces Henry Helm at the local school.

Herb, a graduate of McGill High School in Mobile is one of the very few athletes, who was the owner of four college scholarships for football before receiving his degree.

The quick thinking coach, who is the father of two young boys, began his college career at Perkinson Junior College. During his two years at the Mississippi School
Herb was named to the All-State Junior College team and won both the 100 yard and 220 yard sprints in the State track meet.

From there he transferred to New Mexico A & M on another scholarship. It was here that Herb suffered a great misfortune when he was injured halfway through the season.

At the same time of the injury
he became the father of Herbert Jr. So he quit school and returned to his birthplace Greenville, Miss., to go to work.

When the fall rolled around again Herb, with determination only way I could get to go to college."Immediately following his graduation Coach Adams received an offer to succeed Lance Lumpkin as head coach at Long Beach.In his first year in the coaching profession, Herb lead the Gulf Coast athletes to a football record of 7 wins and 2 losses and 1 tie.

His baseball team finished the season with a 9-4 record.Three weeks ago Adams had a long distance phone call from Brother Roland, president of St. Stanislaus. Brother offered him the assistant position.After much thought Herb decided that this would be an advancement and Bay St. Louis would present a better environment for Herb, Jr., and his newly born son Robert."My wife and I have visited here before and like the town very much," Herb said.The 26 year old coach believes like most of his colleagues that condition is the most important aspect in any sport.He said, "The main idea in sports is condition. This is true ball team as he was moved from

As before he was a success. He made the All-Oklahoma College

Conference first team. And finally that June he witnessed that long awaited moment when he received his diploma.

Herb said, "I had to play five

Rev. Father Costello entertained a chicken dinner at Watkins on Tuesday, June 22.

Altar boys from St. Ann's Catholic church in Clermont were Claud Garcia and J. G. Freutel, Jr.

The 4H members attending Camp recently at Lake Shelby from Clermont Harbor were Mildred Usher, Mary Bing, David Garcia, J. V. Peterson and Frank Peterson, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Lensmyer, Jr., newly weds returning to New Orleans from Florida spent the past weekend with his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Shambley at their home on Oak St.

The picture show scheduled for June 28, sponsored by the Mothers Club was postponed until a later date. Date and time will be announced.

had not been in Bay St. Louis 48 hours when the news broke about the beginning of the conflict between the troops gathered on the border and the Guatemalan army forces.

The Griffiths had felt very grateful for the American plane that circled their ship and for the carrier and land bases back of it. They were grateful for the watchfulness of the submarine that came to meet them and most of all they were grateful that home was the peaceful little town of Bay St. Louis, Miss., in the U. S. A.
